Volunteers at Lehigh Parkway

Members of the Allentown Environmental Advisory Council rallied support of several groups to assist in removing some of the debris in Lehigh Parkway resulting from the October snowstorm.

Council member Andrew Kleiner coordinated the effort along with member Dan Poresky, students of Muhlenberg

College's environmental group ENact, as well as members of the Lehigh Valley Road Runners avidly assisting. Community activist Mike Molovinsky was on hand to applaud the effort and promote continued interest in renovating WPA stone projects located in Lehigh Parkway as well as other venues throughout the city. The clean-up effort was held January 28, 2012.

Friends Collaborates with "The Clean Team"

"The Clean Team"—those dapper gentlemen dressed in blue can be seen working diligently to keep Allentown's streets and sidewalks clean of litter and small debris. And now, in collaboration with Friends of the Allentown Parks, you may see them taking their good work to one of Allentown's beautiful downtown parks. So, who are these gentlemen?

Established in 2008, The Clean Team is a project of the Allentown Rescue Mission. Participants are homeless residential clients of the Mission who engage in real work projects throughout Allentown and the Greater Lehigh Valley. This transitional work training program combines work and productivity with rigorous training in job skills and "Workplace Values."

Participants are encouraged to search for sustaining employment and are provided the tools to successfully find employment (including, but not limited to: job counseling, computer access, dress clothing, bus & bicycle transportation).
